This post on best luxury family resorts in Europe is packed with incredible stays that will leave you eager to plan a luxury getaway.

The latest travel trends see travellers swapping far-flung destinations for places a little closer to home, as well as a massive increase in families looking for luxury hotels. With this in mind, I have hand-picked some of the best luxury family resorts in Europe to whet your appetite.

These hotels are some of Europe's best, so they won't be cheap... I have visited some of these personally, while others are still on my own wish list. However, I have researched these far and wide, so you can rest assured that these are some of the best luxury family resorts in Europe.

Vivosa Apulia Resort, Puglia, Italy

Vivosa Apulia Resort is probably the best all inclusive resort in Italy for families – in fact it won the coveted title four years in a row at the World Travel Awards. Located in one of my favourite regions in Italy, Puglia, and a short walk from the sea, this four star resort boasts large pool areas, kids clubs from babies to teens, a host of sports activities, an adventure park, and evening entertainment for all the family to enjoy.

Adults will love the Vivosa Organic Spa, which has won Spa of the Year for four years, as well as the host of fitness classes, sports activities and wellness activities.

Located a few minutes' drive from Gallipoli, 45 minutes from Lecce and and less than an hour from Otranto, the location is ideal if you want to explore this beautiful region.

How to get there?

The closest airport to Vivosa is Brindisi (approx. 70 minutes away) which is served by Aer Lingus and Ryanair from Dublin, and many airports throughout Europe. It is also accessible from Bari (2.5 hours).
